14 January 2009

Publishers are being asked to fill out a confidential survey, which will attempt to gauge the impact the UK book trade is having on the environment, and what proportion of companies are using green paper.

The survey, which contains questions such as "do you specify FSC/PEFC/recycled paper", must be completed by 15th February.

Other questions publishers will be asked include what tonnage of paper they used over the last year, and what proportion of it was recycled or from sustainable sources.

A PA spokesperson said there was a "growing need to have such statistics".

The consolidated results are expected to be used in the next issue of the PA's Statistics Yearbook.
